Dear Ambassador Vice Skračić,

I am writing to you to express my views regarding a community just outside of Croatia called Gornja Siga, also known as Liberland. I am interested in visiting the area as well as other parts of Croatia; however, I'm concerned about reports that Croatian police have orders to treat people who come there in a very unfriendly and unjust manner.

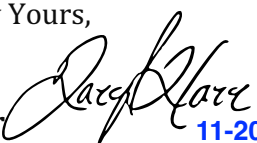

As a Canadian, I am concerned of the videos I am seeing online of aggressive behavior by Croatian police against quite docile people who want to visit the area and go hiking or biking. For example, there are reports that those who visit the Osijek-Baranja region are getting banned from Croatia for 90 days if they are legally in Croatia, but not a citizen of the EU or a Schengen Zone country. Is this true and if so, why is this happening?

Surely it is not in Croatia's interests to be seen as unwelcoming by the world or treat tourists like this. This seems to be a violation of the common visa policy and contradicts the rules that apply to Schengen Zone member countries. Unfortunately, the threat of such treatment makes me reluctant to want to travel to Croatia.

I plan to travel to this area before January 2025 and would like to ensure my safe and enjoyable travels.

Please confirm, and I assure you of my kindest regards.

Sincerely Yours,

Daryl Harr  11-20-24
